BIOGRAPHY

DR. JONATHAN HARDY

I obtained a degree in Zoology at Oxford University before studying Medicine and qualifying in 1984. I have worked fulltime as a Homeopathic doctor since 1986.

I practice classical Homeopathy, combining the time-tested traditional techniques with the exciting new methods developed by the well-known Homeopathic teachers of the twenty-first century.

I believe the fascinating development of our systematic understanding of materia medica, through knowledge of the themes in kingdoms, families and miasms and use of sensation level material has been vitally important in making our art of homeopathy more scientific and effective.

In my presentation I hope to communicate some recently gained insights into the common themes and expressions found in patients needing Imponderable remedies. These powerful medicines appear to have a special relevance to the issues faced by many people at the moment, and perhaps a wider significance to the state of the world in these challenging times.
