

Dr. Josef M. Schmidt

Josef M. Schmidt is Professor of the History of Medicine at the Ludwig Maximilian's University of Munich/Germany, Doctor of Medicine, and Doctor of Philosophy. After his medical specialization in General Medicine and Homeopathy, he has worked as a Research Associate at the Department of the History of Health Sciences at the University of California, San Francisco, where, in 1992, he has edited the first text-critical edition of Hahnemann's manuscript of the sixth edition of the Organon of the Art of Healing. In 2005, he was conferred the qualification as a professor (venia legendi, habilitation) at the University of Munich. Since more than 30 years, he has published numerous articles and seminal works on the history and theory of homeopathy and has been lecturing to university students as well as to the medical profession in his annual summer schools or at international congresses.

Prof. Dr. med. Dr. phil. Josef M. Schmidt,
Ludwig-Maximilian's University Munich,
Institute of Ethics, History, and Theory of Medicine,
Lessingstr. 2, D-80336 Munich, Germany
(e-mail: j.m.schmidt@lrz.uni-muenchen.de)